WE LOVE ELECTRONICS 24/7/365!

Elektroniktidningen provides the Swedish electronics industry with qualified news, analyses and in-depth technical articles.

The Swedish electronics industry*:

- Close to 4 000 companies with electronics as their core business.
- 77 000 people whereof 17 000 at Ericsson.
- A yearly aggregated revenue of more than 60 billion dollars and a healthy profitability.

*Source: Grufman Reje, 2013

Our readers work at world leading companies including Ericsson (telecom), ABB (power and automation), Saab (defence), Volvo (trucks and cars), Scania (trucks), Autoliv (automotive safety), Bombardier (trains), Ctek (charging) and Mycronic (manufacturing).

There are also a number of younger companies with global ambitions. Spotify is probably the best known but there are other rising stars including Axis (surveillance cameras), Infinera (ex Transmode (telecom)), Tobii (eye tracking), Ctek and Silex (MEMS).

If you want to target engineers working as hardware and software designers, production engineers, test engineers, system developers, technical decision makers, purchasers and other professionals in the electronics industry, there's only one choice – Elektroniktidningen.

You get access to the Swedish electronics industry through our printed magazine, our web site, our daily newsletter and through our exclusive list rental.
